

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A dust protection seat for the blade shaft of a wood-planing device is disclosed. The dust prevention seat for the blade shaft of a wood planning device has a small volume that facilitates storage and transporting and the 5 method of fabrication is simple and the cost of production is low. In addition, if partial of the device component is damaged, the component can be replaced.